NARRATING SILENCE AND ABSENCE: POWER, MEMORY AND THE UNSAID IN LITERATURE

Guest Editor

The Editorial Board of DABEER invites scholarly contributions for a forthcoming special issue on the theme: Narrating Silence and Absence: Power, Memory and the Unsaid in Literature.

This issue explores how silence, erasure, fragmentation, and absence function as powerful narrative strategies across literary traditions and cultural contexts. We welcome interdisciplinary, comparative, and theoretically informed approaches that interrogate what remains unspoken or invisible — and why.

This special issue seeks to foreground questions of authority, trauma, censorship, marginality, memory, politics, and resistance as they manifest through silence and the unsaid. Submissions may examine canonical, contemporary, diasporic, indigenous, gendered, postcolonial or digital literary practices.

Submissions may address, but are not limited to, the following themes:
